

Preface	i
Part One: Setting the Scene
1. Introduction: ‘Mind the Gap’: Teaching Portfolios as Forums for Academic Inquiry	3
Ciara O’Farrell
2. Reflective Portfolios for Professional Development	11
Jean Hughes and Ivan Moore
3. Reflective Writing: Principles and Practice	24
Orison Carlile and Anne Jordan
4. Teaching Philosophy Statements: A Guide	39
Marian Fitzmaurice and Joseph Coughlan
Part Two: Case Studies. A National Overview of Practice in Ireland
5. Educating for Inquiry and Exchange through a Reflective Portfolio Process: Making Teaching a University-wide Scholarly Imperative	51
Nona Lyons
6. The Role of Teaching Portfolios in the Development of a Reflective Learning Culture at Dublin City University	64
Jean Hughes
7. Reflective Teaching Portfolios for Continuous Professional Development at Trinity College Dublin	75
Orla Hanratty and Ciara O’Farrell
8. Theory and Practice in the Development of Teaching Portfolios at NUI Galway	86
Timothy Murphy and Iain MacLaren
9. Portfolios for Professional Development versus Portfolios for Promotion: A University College Dublin Case Study	101
Geraldine O’Neill

Contents

10. The Use of Teaching Portfolios for Academic Professional Development at Dublin Institute of Technology Roisin Donnelly and Marian Fitzmaurice	112
11. The Use of Student Feedback in Teaching Portfolios at the University of Limerick Nyiel Kuol and Sarah Moore	122
12. Fostering, Recognising and Rewarding Scholarly Teaching at University College Cork: Three Perspectives Áine Hyland, Marian McCarthy and Bettie Higgs	130
13. Educating Practitioners for Reflective Inquiry: The Contribution of a Portfolio Process to New Ways of Knowing Carmel Halton and Nona Lyons	147
 Part Three: Common Themes and Way Forward
14. What Next for Teaching Portfolios in Ireland? Jacqueline Potter	161
 Author Biographies	 172